ABSTRACT

INJECTION MOULDED CONTAINERS

A process for the manufacture of single or multicompartment rigid, water-soluble container, containing a detergent composition wherein the container is at least partially made of injection moulded water soluble polymer; the process comprising the steps of forming the container, keeping the container under substantially anhydrous conditions, filling the container with the detergent composition and sealing, wherein the container is allowed to contact / brought into contact with a plasticiser after sealing..